“Today we find ourselves wandering disconsolately between two worlds – one dying and the other struggling to be born. On the one hand, the spiritual and intellectual certainties of the past no longer command our allegiance. On the other, the promises of a more integral worldview, a cosmology of tomorrow – one based on a deeper relationship with nature and with the larger cosmos – require of us a leap of faith few are as yet willing to take. With the future of the human spirit and the future of the planet hanging in the balance, we have no choice but to embrace courage, imagination, and our deepest inner resources.” – Richard Tarnas

Many of us who have been on a conscious spiritual path for some time are aware of the paradox – being quite awake, quite knowledgeable about the momentous individual and global shift in which we are immersed, and yet are having difficulty navigating the rough waters of radical personal and planetary transformation with calm, clarity and equanimity.

Humanity stands upon the sands of a shifting paradigm, a time which calls forth a new and dynamic mythology. How do we engage a value system which nurtures and sustains life rather than destroys it? How do we facilitate the shift from “the love of power to the power of love.” (Anodea Judith)

“Evolutionary change will only start when we become participants and stop our fruitless wait for another hero to arise and save us...for we are the heroes we have been looking for! Everyday, human ‘imaginal cells’ are creating order out of the impending chaos. Evolutionary actions at the local level are increasing at a logarithmic state, and frequently unrecognized by the media. So while it appears that nothing is happening on the surface, below there is a groundswell of change that is about to erupt.” --Bruce Lipton

This workshop is about establishing coherence – creating alignment — utilizing a communal field of support as we unfold into our personal and collective purpose. Join us as we survey the visionary guidance offered by the spiritual teachers, mystics, psychologists and scientists on the front lines of this quantum leap in human consciousness. Through discussion, creative expression, energy psychology techniques and experiential exercises, we will endeavor to clear fear, strengthen resilience, open our hearts, and participate in co-creative evolutionary partnership.

Andrew Gonzales “The Wake of the Underground Sun”

Deborah Austin, MA Transpersonal Psychology, is an intuitive healer and life-long student of a broad spectrum of spiritual philosophies. A teacher of metaphysics and spirituality since 1985, she currently teaches about personal transformation and healing through the lens of spiritual psychology and the practice of embodiment- the awakening of soul in matter. In her counseling and spiritual mentoring practice she utilizes the archetypes of soul-centered archetypal astrology and honors a deep commitment to assist others in revisioning life challenges as opportunities for unlocking inner resources, the gifts of soul and psyche which bring freedom from fear and limitation. Trained in Esoteric Healing, Cranial-sacral Therapy, Somatic Emotional Release, and Reiki, Deborah firmly believes that humor is absolutely essential on the road to awakened soul Presence.

Mara Evans, MTP holds a Masters in Transpersonal Psychology with specialization in Spiritual Psychology as well as Organizational Development. She is a level III Practitioner/Teacher of the Reiki healing system and has also received training in subtle body work, vibrational healing and intuitive development. With an academic background in anthropology, religious studies and psychology, Mara has particular insight into the dynamic interplay of collective, social and individual consciousness. She is currently adjunct faculty at Siena Heights University, part-time faculty at Washtenaw Community College, an organizational consultant, and spiritual coach. Mara is committed to the process of awakening to the core essence and to actively integrating spirituality into every aspect of life.
